Clovis CEO featured in December 09 SmartCEO Issue

Firm recognized as one of fastest growing companies in Greater Washington

Bethesda, MD, December 17, 2009 – In the 2009 December issue of SmartCEO, for Greater Washington, Greg Diamond, Managing Partner of Clovis in Bethesda, was featured giving insight about what to expect in the local Staffing industry in 2010. Although Greater Washington is still being affected by the economic woes that the rest of the country is feeling, the effects have not been as drastic. In December, the Greater Washington area was only showing a six percent unemployment rate, while other metropolitan areas were seeing closer to ten percent unemployment.

Although most industries are contributing to this overwhelming loss of jobs, within the Greater Washington area, industries like healthcare, IT, accounting or government contracting, face an unemployment rate of less than three percent. Clovis manages to continue to staff approximately fifty jobs a month.

“What we’re finding is that many companies have hiring freezes,” he explains, “but they have consulting or staffing budgets and they are utilizing those to still get their work done.”

Diamond goes on to state that the recovery is real and that some industries, like government contracting, are still hiring. With an anticipated recovery date of 2017, the Greater Washington area will still be able to maintain a lower unemployment rate due to the stability of the government dollars being spent in the area.
